The New Patriotic Party (NPP) has released a list of some key members of the governing National Democratic Congress (NDC) who allegedly benefited from the GH₵51.2 million judgment debt wrongfully paid to Alfred Woyome.

NPP Communications Director, Nana Akomea at a news conference in Accra

Monday, said it was never the case that the NDC financier solely benefited from the judgment debt paid him in 2010.

He said Mr Woyome wrote down the names of all the beneficiaries of the money and noted the purposes for which they were going to be paid the money.

“Mr Woyome was very meticulous in keeping the records,” he added.

The key beneficiaries, according to him include;

May 2011

(m)GH₵30,000 was given to NDC Greater Accra Regional Chairman, Ade Coker on 8 February 2011

These beneficiaries, Nana Akomea claims are people who defended Mr Woyome after the Supreme Court ruled that the money was wrongfully paid to the businessman and should be returned to the state.

“Clearly, the money that Woyome received, he made a huge payment out of it to NDC,” he said.

Sections of Ghanaians have questioned the resolve of government to retrieve the GH₵51.2 million from Mr Woyome.

The doubt of some Ghanaians peaked after Attorney-General (A-G), Marietta Opong-Brew withdrew an application to cross-examine the businessman about the use of the money.

any of the businessmen were displeased with the former A-G's action resulting in a counter suit to have the former A-G's case thrown out.

They said Mr Woyome has reached a settlement agreement with Mrs Opong-Brew to pay back the money but the NPP believes government wants to refocus the attention of Ghanaians from the money.

Akomea said President Mahama has not demonstrated the commitment to give the money despite public outcry.

"Fish rot from the head," he said, adding the President has scars of corruption on him which makes him unfit to lead the nation in the next four.
